Federal Loan To Coleman For Sewage Project

OTTAWA — Approval of a federal government loan of $74,000 to the Town of Coleman, Alberta, to assist in the construction of a sewage treatment project was announced today by the Hon. Harry Hays, Minister of Agriculture.

The Town of Coleman has no organized sewage system at the present time. The NHA loan will assist in the construction of a sewage pumping station, a set of 8-inch force main, an aeration tank and a sewage treatment.

Made under the terms of the National Housing Act, the loan will be repayable over a period of 25 years with interest at 5 3/8 per cent per annum. The loan is based on an estimated cost of $111,000.

For work completed on or before March 31, 1967, CMHC may forgive repayment of 25 per cent of the principal amount of the NHA loan and 25 per cent of the interest that has accrued in respect to the loan as of the date of completion of the project.

Night of Plays Well Attended

The action of Drama came once again to the Horace Allen high school when three plays were produced under the direction of Mr. Horace Allen with "Parole", Mr. Steve Ondrus with "The Long Silence", and Mrs. J. Holyk with "Wild Cat Willie Gets the Woolies".

An audience of more than 200 persons were in attendance.

It has been noted that some of the audience stated that these plays were much better than the Festival Plays because the students that were acting were not as tense as the actors in the Festival. The reason for the Festival actors being tense was that they were being commented on.

This was the third set of plays produced in the high school, all of which were well attended.

The actors of all these plays, the teaching staff and the students of the Horace Allen high school would like to thank all those who attended these plays. They also hope that these audiences will prevail in the future.

OORP District Meet Well Attended

A District 9 meeting of the Order of the Royal Purple Lodges was held in Coleman last week, with over 140 members attending from Cranbrook, Fernie, Blairmore and Coleman.

The sessions were held in the Elks hall and were presided over by District Deputy Supreme Honored Royal Lady Helen Giacomuzzi of Blairmore.

Drills were performed by the drill teams during the sessions in the hall. A banquet supper was served in the basement of the Elks hall catered to by the ladies of the United Church.

A social evening was held to wind up the event, and each of the Lodges presented skits and provided entertainment. Coffee was served at the conclusion.

Fish & Game Association To Fight Stream Pollution

Coleman Fish and Game Association will go all out this season to help stop water pollution in the streams and creeks in this Crows Nest Pass district.

This important matter was thoroughly discussed by the Association's members at a meeting last week when the Association were informed that some local companies in the area were washing and cleaning heavy equipment on the banks of the Crows Nest River and all of the grease, oil and chemicals from the machines were running into the river.

The Forestry Department is to be contacted regarding action being taken to stop this practice.

The Association will also start a drive to urge fishermen, campers and all who avail themselves of the streams and picnic areas in the Pass not to pollute water by such methods as throwing fish entrails back into the streams; throwing picnic remains into streams; washing cars and trucks on stream banks and in the streams and many other practices that pollute the waters in the area.

The matter of closing streams in the Crows Nest Pass district from April 1 to June 15 to give fish a chance to spawn was discussed.

The Association will contact the Fisheries Branch to see if this could be effected.

Several projects for the club to consider this season were discussed and include the construction of another dam south of Coleman similar to the one built by the club at Allison Creek. The site would provide a picnic area and the dam would be stocked with fish. Attempts are to be made by the Association to have more stocking of trout done in this area this year.

The Association took out a membership in the Canadian Wildlife Federation at a cost of $5. Members may also join the Federation at a similar cost and thus receive the monthly magazine sent out by the Federation.

The Association will hold monthly meetings on the first Tuesday of each month and all members are urged to attend.

Kindt Urges New Wheat Markets

"Let's give South American and African countries their first taste of Canadian wheat flour," Dr. Lawrence E. Kindt, MP, urged at last Saturday's Progressive Conservative nominating convention.

In accepting the nomination as PC candidate for Macleod riding in the next federal election, Dr. Kindt outlined his stand on national policies.

Most important is adequate prices for basic agricultural items, says Dr. Kindt. In favor of selling wheat to Red countries or anywhere on world markets, he spoke of South American and African areas needing wheat flour. "I would establish a Risk Trading Fund," he said, "supported by the government and perhaps partly by the farmers themselves. Another 100 million bushels sold this year would have prevented the 20c a bushel price drop. A $10 million Risk Fund expenditure to get out of the price drop would have resulted in $50 to $60 million more in the farmer's pockets."

Price maintenance is urgent, he said. Canada must get the price of wheat back to a level where it will aid the farmers.

Referring to the government's $400 million Industrialization Fund now being spent largely in Ontario and Quebec, he urged a new formula for its operation. Rather than designating areas for expenditure according to their unemployment figures, Dr. Kindt would establish industries where the natural resources exist, and let the workers flow to the jobs, where they would benefit by establishment in a new setting. "If industries are not developing where the unemployment exists there is something wrong with that area," said Dr. Kindt.

Referring to Railroad Abandonment, he urged formation of an agency to study the problems and hand down decisions. Needs and services should be taken into consideration, besides cost accounting, before closing railroad facilities, he said.

Dr. Kindt, who has successfully contested the Macleod seat on three successive occasions, was nominated by Hans Hasselman of Pincher Creek, and Jack Patterson of Okotoks.

In outlining the burden of duties connected with a member's work in Ottawa, Dr. Kindt paid sincere tribute to the work and encouragement given by Mrs. Kindt, the enthusiastic applause of the 200 delegates present backing his words of appreciation.

Five men lived for a month in 1963 in a shelter 36 feet below the surface of the Red Sea.

Town Council Meeting, April 13

Representatives Bob Zak and Norman Hammer were on hand to request council to aid in the project of entertaining the former Colemanites who are planning the trip here in a Motorcade from Vancouver as well as other points along the way. Council stated they would appoint a committee to meet with the Elks and other organizations which are interested.

A letter was read from the Order of Railroad Telegraphers supporting Coleman in their bid to retain way-billing facilities of Canadian Pacific Railways.

Council agreed that a brief would be presented at the hearing which is to be held in Lethbridge May 12, in the courthouse.

Council discussed the hold-up on the sewerage system. It seems that the maps of the system had to be sent back to Calgary to be redrawn because of the changes made after bids were first received. Council was very much in the dark as to when the contract would be signed, or when work would be started on the system.

A dog catcher was appointed, with the stipulation that he supply all necessary equipment to cope with the job. Councillors Hanrahan and Szymanski were against this appointment, with Mr. Filowich abstaining.

The subject of the School Meeting, which was held in the Horace Allen high school on March 21st, was raised. The result of the meeting that, no pupils of this school would be sent to Blairmore. Mr.

Hanrahan then supported writer by asking why the press had been barred from this meeting until the Mayor had taken a firm stand?

It was his opinion that there was no reason for this action on the part of the School Board, as this was a meeting of very much importance to the public.

Mr. Krychka was not in favor of this while the rest of the council seemed to favor the press being allowed to relate to the people concerned, the actions taken by the meeting.

The government grant of 25c per capita to the Industrial Development Board was received, and the remainder of the town's share would be paid to same.

The application of J. Hopkins, Jr., to open and close graves for the town of Coleman was accepted with the stipulation that no grave will be opened until an Authorization Permit has been issued by the Town Office. It was also mentioned that it is the responsibility of the Undertaker to obtain and pay the Interment Fee of $50, and obtain permit.

"Accidental Death" Ruling of Coroner's Jury

Accidental death with no blame attached was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Timothy Span, Coleman mine worker, whose body was missing in Vicary Mine for 38 days.

The inquest was held in Blairmore court house at 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 7th.

The jury, under direction of Coroner F. S. Radford, comprised Foreman, Gene Quarin; Rudy Yeliga, Robert Zak, Vince Janostik, Edward Yagos and Robert Campbell, all of Coleman.

Attending physician, Dr. Emil Aello, gave evidence which indicated Mr. Span had died of multiple injuries and asphyxiation.

Evidence was given by Mine Manager Martin Aschacher, Manager Wm. Goodwin; Floyd Smanstos, a miner; Gene Oswald, a pipe fitter; and plans of the accident area were provided by Mine Engineer John Kinneer.

Mines Inspector I. Potter, from Lethbridge, conducted the investigation of all witnesses. Provincial Director of Mines, John Dutton, of Edmonton, was present at the inquest.

Mr. Span, 27 years old, was lost in the Vicary Mine February 17, when an underground lake flooded the Vicary Creek Mine which is located 12 miles north of Coleman. Besides his wife Glenda, Mr. Span is survived by two young sons and a baby daughter.

CTL Records The 'Ron Collier Tentet'

The April Canadian Talent Library album release adds to the roster the name of Ron Collier — trombonist, composer, arranger, and leader of the Ron Collier Tentet.

Ron became interested in jazz composition through an association with Norm Symonds' Hart House Orchestra, and eventually formed his own quintet. What was a quintet has been enlarged to a "Tentet" and it is this group which is featured in the April Canadian Tal-

Prairie Provinces Heading Towards Water Shortage

The Water Resources Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture is not impressed with grandiose water supply schemes such as NAWAPA (North American Water and Power Alliance, and with good reason. It knows that the province's water resources are not limitless; that uncontrolled usage could create problems; and that it must place a high premium on reserves.

Says F. L. Grindley, Director of the Branch, "Most people think the supply is endless; that water can be safely squandered. Those of us who are concerned with the problems of water supply know otherwise. We know that Alberta, like the western United States area that NAWAPA would serve, could develop a water shortage. With this in mind, we are pursuing a development and use policy which ensures maximum utilization and an equitable distribution to all users."

Who are these users?

In terms of true consumption, irrigation is the largest, with extensive projects in the southern half (650,000 acres are now under irrigation and this might well rise to 1,000,000 acres, depending on future economic factors) of the province drinking deeply from rivers. By comparison, the two other major or consumptive users - municipalities and industry - drink sparingly, with industry returning practically 100 per cent of what it draws and municipalities doing almost as well, since 88 per cent of all water used by municipal waterworks systems is ultimately returned to its source after treatment.

Whenever a valuable commodity is shared or held in common, conflicts are bound to arise. In the case of Alberta's limited water resources, misunderstandings may develop between the irrigation farmer and the power producer even though the irrigation farmer is the greatest consumptive user of water while the power producer, though he uses water, is not a consumer at all. Every drop he uses is returned to its source.

The irrigation farmer may claim that upstream power development deprives him of water during certain times of the crop season, often overlooking the fact that the shortages he occasionally experiences could result from an inadequacy in his local irrigation system. The power producer points out that upstream power development is beneficial to irrigation, since it "levels out" flow, thus extending the period of beneficial flow and with it the irrigation season by as much as 90 days a year. This provides the farmer with water during early spring and late fall when he can utilize it and during which periods rivers would normally be at extremely low ebb.

In discussing these claims, provincial government water resources engineers say upstream power development is entirely beneficial and complementary to irrigation.

Says Water Resources Director Grindley, "I'll say unequivocally that existence of upstream power dams has been generally helpful to irrigation. Our policy is to encourage construction of such dams, so sure are we that the effect is beneficial."

Equally emphatic is George Underhill, Branch Calgary district engineer, who says:

"The detailed, statistical impact of upstream development on irrigation is extremely difficult to establish, but I'm completely satisfied the effect on irrigation on the whole is good." Engineers believe that without upstream power development on the Bow River and its tributaries, the three irrigation projects in the Calgary area - the Western, Bow River, and Eastern Irrigation Districts - would not have been possible, at least not without major upstream storage dams, such as power development now provides. "In other words," says one authority, "if the power operator didn't build dams, the government would have to build them - at the taxpayers' expense - in order to make irrigation along the Bow River, whose flow is erratic, a working proposition."

Grindley adds, "Certainly government ownership of some upstream storage facilities would give us a desirable flexibility in control of water, but the loss of the advantage of such flexibility is compensated for by savings to the taxpayer through private investment in such storage facilities."

Water Resources Branch officials say criticism of upstream power development is frequently based on misunderstanding. Says a branch spokesman, "A farmer finds that he isn't getting all the water he wants. His natural reaction is that the power company is holding back. What he doesn't realize is that often it's only because the power company has been storing water that he, the farmer, is getting any water at all. In other words, by storing water, the power operator ensures that the farmer will have water when he most needs it. Without such storage facilities, there would be very little water during the critical summer periods when the farmer most needs it. Instead of complaining about the existence of upstream dams he should be demanding more of them, since they have been the salvation of irrigated farming."

Branch spokesmen say that complaints directed at upstream power frequently are the result of misconceptions.

"For example," says a department official, "a good percentage of complaints come from irrigation areas in the southern part of the province, with the complainant writing in to say that his crops are burning up while the power companies are holding back water for electricity. When we receive such complaints we merely scratch our heads because there are no power dams on the rivers serving the area and storage of water by means of single purpose irrigation dams."

The interests of the irrigation farmer, besides being served generally by the presence of upstream power facilities, are also protected by statute - the Alberta Water Resources Act, passed in 1930, - when some regulatory powers over water use were transferred back to the provinces by the federal government.

This legislation establishes priorities in the use of water in the following order - domestic, municipal, industrial, irrigation, hydro production and recreation. Licences to use and divert water are issued on a "first come-first served" basis, with, significantly, the Water Resources Branch being empowered to cancel a licence if it is found that more beneficial use can be made of water by a user with a higher priority.

"In short," says Grindley, "the interests of the irrigation farmer, in relation to the power industry, is protected by statute and this statutory provision would be invoked if there was any evidence whatever that the farmer's interests were being adversely affected."

Canada Theatre (Clayton Bricker)

Canada's sparkling Wille O' The Wisp, a 16-member Folk Dance Troupe, has swung into the exhilarating tempo of the professional theatre which will take them dancing and singing around the world with an ensemble whose overall theme is a Canadian Mosaic. The ten suites of the show represent the past, present and aspirations for the future. During their coming tour of Canada, they will be seen in June this year at the Jubilee Auditorium in Calgary.

We learn that Les Feux Follets ensemble was born a dozen years ago in Montreal and has a repertoire which has already dazzled audiences in Canada, the U.S.A., and France, and flashed into prominence as the highlight of the Royal variety show performed for the Queen in Charlottetown, P.E.I., last year. Today, with their first professional appearance (at Montreal's splendid Palace des Arts) a resounding success, the Wille O' The Wisp are off on a series of tours heading for Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Europe and North and South America. Included in these plans are participation in the Commonwealth Festival in Great Britain this autumn, the Vancouver Festival in July and performances in nearly 50 cities in Canada and the United States. Les Feux Follets presents a two-hour show that portrays Canada from coast to coast.

Alive with dancing, aglow with music and singing, afire with color, this folklorist's interpretation of Canadian history pages turned, is authentic in costume and theme. Switching from French to English and from Eskimo to Indian for appropriate scenes, a Canadian Mosaic brings to the west coast with ancient Indian rituals, travels with pioneers on the covered wagon trails, visits the gold rush days, looks at contemporary industrial Canada, then switches back in time to French Canadian, other mariners of Scottish descent, savings way north for an Eskimo walrus hunt and finally comes back to the shores of the mighty St. Lawrence

More than 2,500,000 Canadians give freely of their time, effort or their blood to serve in a voluntary capacity for the Canadian Red Cross.

VIEWING HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE COMING WEEK

APRIL 24th - MAY 1st

Iolanthe, the most subtle of all Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, brightens the CBC-TV schedule this week. It will be presented on Wednesday, April 26 at 9:30 p.m. on Festival.

A comical fairy tale, Iolanthe is the story of a spirit who is banished from the fairy circle for marrying a human being and later restored. It is considered clever nonsense, combining a charming pastoral quality with biting satire aimed at the sacred subject of British politics.

Eric House, probably Canada's leading opera performer, will star as the Lord Chancellor, with Irene Byatt as Queen of the Fairies, and Lan Birman, Barbara Strathdee, Howell Glynn and Diane Stapley.

Last September United Church of Canada elected for a two-year term a new Moderator for the 21st General Council — The Right Rev. Ernest Marshall House. Like his predecessor, Dr. J. R. Mitchell, Dr. House is outspoken and prepared for involvement in controversial issues. Heritage, Sunday, April 26th at 3 p.m., studies Rev. House in "Portrait of a Moderator."

Dr. House is an acknowledged liberal thinker and a distinguished scholar who has earned a number of degrees, published seven books and contributed articles and special reports to various magazines and newspapers throughout Canada and the United States.

W. O. Mitchell, the famous prairie author, has written a tender and humorous novel entitled "The Kite", telling the story of a man believed to be the oldest human in the world. The townspeople of Shelby become very concerned when their most famous citizen, David Sherry, takes to his bed for a few weeks prior to his 111th birthday, and announces he is going to die. Jack Creley, Eric House, John Vernon and Charmion King star in "The Kite", Monday night at 8 on Show of the Week.

Lions and Christians is the intimate story of a fighter—Canadian heavyweight, George Chuvalo. On Telescope this Friday at 9:30 p.m. George explains what it is like in the ring — sometimes you are the Lion and sometimes the Christian. Often the fighter himself doesn't know which he's going to be.

As a prelude to his fight with Floyd Patterson, Chuvalo will be seen in training in his gyms in Toronto and New York. Irving Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager, and George's wife provide insights into what a fighter goes through prior to a big fight on which his entire career may depend.

Stanley Cup action will continue during the week of April 24 - May 1 and could go right until the week end if the final series should go to the seven game limit. Contrary to previous information there may be Sunday telecasts if Detroit makes the final. Otherwise all games will be played on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

At this writing the CBC is still negotiating with the American Broadcasting Company for the rights to carry the ABC coverage of baseball's Game of the Week. If negotiations are successful the CBC-TV network will be carrying an ABC baseball origination every Saturday afternoon.

(7) The rate will be 1.8 per cent for employees with 1.8 per cent paid by employers and the whole 3.6 per cent will be paid by self-employed persons. Thus, a person earning $5,000 would contribute $75.00 a year with his employer adding the same amount. A self-employed person would contribute the entire $150.00. Similarly, a person earning $1200 a year would contribute $18.00 a year, while receiving a monthly pension of $25.

(8) During the 10-year transition period, during which the Plan matures, benefits will be reduced proportionately for a person drawing from the Plan before 1976. Thus, a person who contributes for one year and draws his first benefit in 1967 will get 1/10th of the pension he would get in 1976.

(9) Persons who are now 65 years of age who work until age 70 can get half of the full pension, or $50.00 a month, if they earn over $5,000 a year.

(10) Persons age 65 or over next year will receive little or nothing from the Plan. Persons 70 and over will receive nothing at all. Persons below the age of 60 down to 18 years, when they first start contributing, may be able to draw the full pension.

(11) It should be pointed out that in addition to the benefits under the new Canada Pension Plan, the existing $75 a month Old Age Pension will also be paid. During the first five years of the new Pension Plan the eligible age for the $75 a month Old Age Pension will also be dropping from its present age 70 to the age of 65. Thus by 1970 persons aged 65 and over will receive the Old Age Pension plus their Canada Pension Plan benefits.

Accordingly, next year persons aged 69 can draw the Old Age Pension. Persons aged 68 can draw in 1967 and so on.

Cancer Chairman Sees Poll Endorsement Research Expenditures

The Canadian people have endorsed the policy of the Canadian Cancer Society to spend the largest percentage of their funds on research. M. L. (Fritz) Hanson, Calgary, the Provincial Campaign Chairman for the Society, said today.

"The Gallup Poll," said Mr. Hanson, "makes it quite clear that the people are behind us — and this is very reassuring right now while we are in the midst of our annual campaign for funds."

The Society, during the month of April, seeks $4,211,175 to carry on its three-fold program of research, education of the public and services to patients. About 47 per cent of this amount, said Mr. Hanson, would be spent on research projects and facilities. The Alberta objective for the Crusade is $421,175.

This course of action, being pointed out, was tacitly approved by the recent poll of the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion which asked a sampling of people throughout the country this question: — "Here is a list of six serious illnesses; which one do you think should receive most support from public funds for a program of research and public education?"

The largest proportion of those polled — 57 per cent — chose cancer as the disease most worthy of such research, followed by mental illnesses (20 per cent), and heart disease (11 per cent). The other three diseases mentioned — arthritis, polio and tuberculosis — received four, three and two per cent of the votes respectively. Four per cent of those questioned had no opinion.

"Since the Canadian Cancer Society's first campaign in 1949," said Mr. Hanson, "the national organization has provided $15,332,000 for cancer research. We are convinced that in research lies the eventual solution of the cancer problem. It is nice to see that the Canadian people agree with us."

Dept. of Welfare Services Extended

Dr. M. J. Liptkind, retiring president of the Alberta Dental Association, reports that dental services will be extended to two new groups through the Department of Welfare.

1—Financial assistance will be granted on a short term basis to family groups and single individuals who are employable but for whom no employment is available.

2—A committee has been established to screen applicants who are in urgent need of orthodontic treatment.

These additional accounts will be processed for the Department of Welfare by the Alberta Dental Association and in keeping with allowance for other welfare recipients, dentists will supply subsidization for 25 per cent of the usual fee.

"Beware Early Spring Water Hazards"—NSL

April and May have worse records for drownings than do the summer months, according to the National Safety League of Canada. For this reason, the League has issued advice, which, if followed by early-spring anglers, could have many lives.

First, NSL said, make sure the boat, motor and safety equipment are in good condition before venturing into waters where ice may still cling to shorelines or remain in open areas. Be careful not to overload the boat.

Special attention ought to be given to safety equipment, urged the League. "Oneck paddles, oars and bailing bucket. Life jackets not approved by the federal government or showing signs of depreciation, should be discarded. A sudden spill into cold water, combined with heavy clothing, could be fatal without a dependable life jacket," the League warned.

The rolling mill for working metals was first described by Leonardo da Vinci.

Coleman Girl Wed In Calgary

Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Calgary was the scene of a winter wedding when Stephanie Agnes Mraz and Laurence Wayne Homan were united in marriage.

The bride is the second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Mraz of Coleman; the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Homan of Veteran, Alberta.

Rev. Denis Fleming officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie featuring lily-petal sleeves, scoop neckline, an embossed floral design centred with white pearl drop and train skirt. Her bouffant shoulder-dipped veil was held in place by a white peacock-trimmed rose and she carried a bouquet of white orchids centred on a white Bible.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Joan Mraz as maid of honor, and Miss Carol Homan, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. Both wore chiffon cocktail dresses, pink and blue respectively, white lace-trimmed accessories. They carried bouquets of white baby mums centred with pink and blue tinted carnations.

The groom was attended by his brother Richie Homan and Joe Drevencak of Calgary, ushers.

A reception for the immediate families and several friends was held at Hy's Steak House.

For their honeymoon to Banff and Radium, the bride chose a three-piece green and white checked wool suit with black accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Homan are presently residing at Whitecourt, where Mr. Homan is employed by Pan-American Petroleum Corp.

District Teachers Attend Assembly

Two district teachers attended the 48th annual representative assembly of their professional organization at the Macdonald Hotel in Edmonton on April 19 to 21. Those attending were Eric Price of Blairmore, and Mrs. Janet Allen of Coleman.

On Tuesday, April 20th, Dr. Stan Clarke, ATA executive secretary, outlined to the teacher delegates a year-long study of a method for co-ordinating and planning Alberta's multi-million dollar public education operation.

"We must begin to plan what our schools should be doing by 1976," Dr. Clarke said. "From our vantage point in 1964 the ATA executive council can begin to see some of the unexplored terrain stretching ahead of us for the next ten years of professional service to Alberta children. We foresee serious problems in educational finance stemming from both the quality and quantity expansion in the teaching services for our rapidly expanding school population. New curriculum and new instructional methods must be devised to meet the changing and expanding roles of the school in our society. One of the very serious problems before us is a grave need for increased co-ordination between the various levels of educational institutions. These levels can no longer operate in isolation from each other. The parochialism that stratifies educational levels must be removed and this is a task of no small order. The organization and administration of schools must also be subjected to critical examination."

ATA local associations were asked to survey and evaluate their part in the education program and to evaluate and make suggestions as to how the provincial ATA can improve its service. After working on this project through the 1966-66 school term, locals will submit their findings to the ATA executive council, which will be studying proposals at the broader provincial level.

"Project Education 1975 could result in some rather startling proposals both for our own organization and for our partners in the field of public education," Dr. Clarke stated.
